

Holbrook, MA

Holbrook is a town in Norfolk County, Massachusetts, founded in 1872 and named after Elisha N. Holbrook, a philanthropist who donated funds to construct the town hall. Holbrook has a rich history in manufacturing and industry, including leather goods, shoes, and textiles.

Today, the town is a mix of residential neighborhoods, small businesses, and light industries. It is home to several parks and recreational areas, such as Holbrook's Weymouth Reservoir, which offers hiking and fishing opportunities. With its proximity to Boston, Holbrook is an ideal place to put down roots.
